Art Unit: 2833

1. The disclosure is objected to because of the following informalities:

- Figs. 1-4 should be labeled -Prior art-, or something similar.
- The abstract should be in narrative form and generally limited to a single paragraph on a separate sheet within the range of 50 to 150 words. The form and legal phraseology often used in patent claims, such as "means" and "said," should be avoided. The abstract should describe the disclosure sufficiently to assist readers in deciding whether there is a need for consulting the full patent.
- On page 11, line 29, it appears that "112 and 114" should be changed to -114 and 116-.
- The specification contains other minor typographic errors (such as the missing period, and possibly text, on line 19 of page 8).

Appropriate corrections are required.

2. Claims 13-24 are objected to because of the following informalities:

- a. Claim 13 lacks antecedent basis for "the date," "the day" and "the week" on line 1, "the form" on line 2, "the others" on line 5, "the inner toothing" on line 6 and "the same even number" on line 12.
- b. The phrase "being wherein said means" on line 10 of claim 13 is unclear. Is there text missing?
- c. Claim 14 lacks antecedent basis for "said drive wheel"; two drive wheels have previously been defined.
- d. Claim 17 lacks antecedent basis for "the names" on line 2, "the first finger" on lines 5-6 and "the same direction" on the last line.
- e. Claim 24 lacks antecedent basis for "the driving" on line 2, "the torques" on line 3 and "the same time" on line 4.
- f. The claims are generally written in a confusing manner and also contain additional terms lacking antecedent basis.

Appropriate corrections are required.

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. Claims 13-15, 17, 20, 21 and 24, as best understood, are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over the prior art disclosed by applicant in Figs. 1-4 and discussed on pages 1-7 of the present application, in view of Veuilleumier, et al. As noted by applicant, a calendar mechanism including a date indicator formed with a toothed crown, wheel-type driving means and a day indicator as generally claimed is known. The prior art does not use two drive wheels with the same toothing, superposed and coaxial to drive the day and date indicators. However, it is well known that a device that performs a plurality of functions can be separated into various interrelated parts that perform the functions. For example, Veuilleumier teaches the use of two drive wheels 12, 13 with the same toothing that are superposed and coaxial. As noted, this allows each to be "not be very strong" (column 2, line 23), yet to perform the required function. Therefore, it would have been obvious to use two drive wheels in place of the single drive wheel known in the prior art.

5. Claims 16, 18, 19, 22 and 23 appear to be allowable if rewritten to overcome the objections set forth in this Office action and to include all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims. The prior art fails to show or teach the structure of the second drive wheel as described in claim 16, or the cut in the crown that separates the prominent tooth from the tooth that precedes it (claim 22).

6. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. The timekeeping gear of Namyslo includes split teeth. The calendar mechanism of Boyles is similar to that of the present invention.
